HOUSE OF HOHENLOHE.

The House of Hohenlohe was one of the most ancient reigning families in Germany, even older than that of Hohenzollern.

Its origin dates as far back as the 12th Century, when its existence in Southern Germany is historically proved. In 1253 the right of striking their own Coins was granted to the Hohenlohes by the Emperor. In 1744 the Counts were raised to the rank of Princes.

In course of the centuries, the Hohenlohes have partly inherited, partly gained through marriages, extensive properties in Holland, Bohemia and Silesia, and have produced a large number of Statesmen, Generals, Cardinals, and in modern times Governors General of Alsace-Lorraine and an Imperial Chancellor.

In 1803 the Hohenlohes, as many other Princes, were deprived of their Sovereignty by Napoleon, and at the same time lost their rights of coinage.

The Coins and Medals of Hohenlohe have attracted collectors for years, not only in virtue of their historical interest, but owing to their particularly fine designs and variety.

PRICED CATALOGUES.

*A*FTER each sale these catalogues are issued with the prices realised printed in the margin opposite each lot, thus giving at a glance a reliable guide to values.

The final test of value must always be auction prices rather than the figures given in books of reference, for changing times and fashions soon render the latter obsolete and misleading.

On the average we issue twelve Coin and Medal catalogues a year, some of which are usually of sales of important collections. The priced catalogues are posted to subscribers as soon as ready, usually about a week after the date of sale and the subscription is

ONE GUINEA per annum.
